

Lieut. Thorstein N. Buttedahl, formerly of the Norwegian cavalry, received his first real treat in a northern winter about ten days ago. He got out his skis, obtained a speedy horse and whirled through Potomac Park.

National Photo.

Still another photograph of Princess Mary and her fiance, Viscount Lascelles—this time snapped when ready to join a hunt at Tittleshall, England. The Duke of York, Princess Mary's brother, at left.

P. & A. Photo.

Miss Ida Schall, conceded to be the world's greatest woman athlete, gives evidence of her prowess on the ice. She participates in all kinds of sport, and yet she is skilled in needlework.

Wide World Photo.

The bank robber should keep far away from this invention, recently tried out in a Washington bank. When the criminal steps in front of the teller's window and demands that the latter throw up his hands, the slight pressure of a foot inside the cage causes a steel curtain to fall over the window and at the same time releases a spray of chemical, temporarily blinding the would-be robber.

© Underwood & Underwood.

Miss Sigrid Holmquist, Scandinavian star of the photoplay, photographed in Washington.

© Harris & Ewing.

The Miami Athletic Club, composed of fair vacationists in Florida, takes an early morning course in calisthenics. After the exercises the members take a swim in the ocean.

International.

Girls picket the Capitol for Ukrainian cause. Their placards protest against to right: Miss Preston of Binghamton, N. Y.; Miss K. Wozniak of New York Jersey City and Misses Anna Wolk and J. Skuba of New York city.